When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people only casually object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A more judicious, positive in its effect and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not grip or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 462 Washington St., Monticello, Ills.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. J. Eldred Brown and Members of Trinity Episcopal Choir at Sheltering Arms—How Prof. Frank Fanning Jewett's Pupil Improved His Suggestion.

There was evening prayer and an address by Rev. J. Eldred Brown Sunday afternoon at the Sheltering Arms. The subject of the address was "The City of the Lord." After an enumeration of what is pitiless, he said: "In the parental relation we learn what pity is and what it will do. God's pity will inflict pain for our good, but love is with it. God's anger is love chastening us for our good. God gives us for our weakness; how weak in body, mind, convictions and will we all are. God gives us in our sufferings even when self-incurred. Has He not helped us by coming in the person of His only Son? There is only one thing to limit God's help. What we can do for ourselves He will not help us to do. The mercy of the Lord is never wearying to us. He will bear with us to the end, for He is love, and love never fails."

The hymns for the day were in the Cross of Christ I Glory, Nunc Dimitti, Sing, My Soul, His "Ondrous Love, and Hark! My Soul, Angelic Songs Are Swelling. These were given most pleasingly by Mrs. Walter W. Buntingham, Miss Florine Scofield, Miss Katherine Holmes, Miss Hattie Blackstone and Miss Jennie Mitchell. Miss Dorothy McNamee sang at the piano.

What Prof. Frank Fanning Jewett's Pupil Did.

Prof. Frank F. Jewett of Oberlin, O., Norwich Free Academy, '68, a former resident of Norwich Town and son of the late Dr. Charles Jewett, who was in his class of students that "a fortune waited the man who could discover the process of life." One of the boys, Charles Hall, paid attention to what Professor Jewett said in his laboratory and built a little oven in his own home. The result was Mr. Hall discovered the process of treating aluminum ore, secured the fortune that his teacher said awaited the discoverer. This added his new industry to the world. His discovery recently left Oberlin college, his alma mater, nearly three million dollars.

TESTIMONY WAS A SURPRISE

In Pumerantz Trial—Max Franken's Testimony on the Stand Did Not Agree With What He Had Previously Told the State's Attorney—Attorney Geary and State's Attorney in Verbal Clash.

W. A. Straub of Newark, N. J., expert accountant, who was on the stand when court adjourned Friday afternoon, resumed his testimony in the criminal superior court here Monday morning in the case of Nathan Pumerantz, of New London, charged with arson, in setting fire to his clothing store in Bank street. Straub testified as to the value of the stock in the Pumerantz store. Figures given by Straub in his testimony Friday were discussed with Attorney Geary in cross examination and the witness admitted to errors in quoting figures of several thousands of dollars, some of which were in favor of the insurance companies and some in favor of the accused.

Winfield C. Graham, court stenographer, was next called and read some testimony given at a previous hearing in connection with the Pumerantz case.

Max Franken's Testimony. Max Franken, a tailor, employed by Pumerantz, was next called and questioned as to whether the back door was nailed up or not. He was not clear regarding the point and he was on the stand only a few minutes.

John Rehm, an automobile driver, told of buying overalls and jumper the Pumerantz store just before 12 o'clock. He didn't see any women in the back part of the store.

Henry Stone, a trolley car conductor, said that he was in charge of the car which left the parade at 12:14 and that Pumerantz was not on the car.

John McCarthy, watchman at the Shea building, in which the Pumerantz store was located, was called as the next witness and testified that Mr. Shea, the proprietor of the building, had a key to the rear door of the building which he looked at night. He said that on the day of the fire he fixed the fire in the furnace about 6 o'clock. It was a warm day and he did not drive the fire. He came back shortly after supper and fixed it for the night. He told of leaving the sidewalk elevator in front of the Pumerantz store below the walk a considerable distance. There was a barrel on the elevator when he left it and after the fire he found that the elevator had been moved and the barrel was in the coal hole, which was rather unusual. He said that he saw a woman in the Pumerantz cellar in November, but a few days before the fire he asked her to show him the place where she had hidden the money. Pumerantz said: "No, I want them to decorate with Christmas." He advised her to hide the money in the cellar of the Pumerantz building. He was in the Pumerantz building when he was shot.

After Noon Recess. After the noon recess, it was 1 o'clock before the court took up the case of Grace Episcopal church, in conference with attorneys over the trial of the case of G. Curtis Morgan, the attorney.

SUCCEEDS HER FATHER AS POSTMASTER.

Miss Laura F. Goodell Takes the Place at Dwight, Mass.

Thirty years ago W. M. Goodell was appointed postmaster at Dwight, Mass., and has held the office continuously since. Every regulation and requirement of the post office has been made and signed by himself, and there are probably very few old timers who can show so close personal attention for so long a period as the Springfield Republican.

The office recently becoming vacant, Miss Laura Fairchild Goodell, applied for appointment as postmaster and was recommended by Post Office Inspector M. M. Burke of Springfield.

Saturday she was notified by the assistant postmaster general that she had been appointed as clerk in the post office at Springfield, where he has been for twelve years.

W. M. Goodell, father of the young postmistress, is chain agent for the Central Vermont railroad and comes occasionally to Springfield on business for the railroad company.

At the Johnson home Monday afternoon there was a large gathering of members of Home Chapter of The King's Daughters at the February meeting.

Mrs. Louis O. Potter presided at the business meeting. Two new members were added to the active list. At the conclusion while the ladies sewed a Silver Cross service was held, a number of letters being read from the Silver Cross magazine of the past year.

A supper of sandwiches, cake and coffee was served by the ladies.

Mrs. William Friswell, Mrs. George Fellows, Mrs. William A. Gordon, Mrs. James Gilman, Mrs. A. C. Hatch, Mrs. J. H. Holden, Mrs. Ellen Hayes, Mrs. Chas. A. Hargreaves, Mrs. Laura Hutchins, Mrs. J. E. Bill, Mrs. Oscar Carpenter and Mrs. Mary Jewett.

MISSIONARY COMMITTEE.

The B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church held a short business meeting preceding the regular Sunday evening meeting.

The president, William Douglas, presided. For the benefit of the members not present at the regular business meetings, the semi-annual reports were read.

Two were voted into the union as active members. It was voted to form a missionary committee, with the vice president, Ruth Phillips, as chairman, to promote a missionary spirit in the union and to cooperate in the work with the church missionary circles.

The meeting was attended by forty-five members, and much interest was manifested.

Golden Wedding Anniversary. Sunday next is the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. James O. London of 26 Tremontway avenue. They will receive their friends on Saturday afternoon and evening, Feb. 15th.

The Wide Awake cadets of St. James' church, Foguetuck, have received gifts of money from Mrs. Charles Sedent and Mrs. Amanda B. Spaulding of Norwich.

Tailor Was Called.

Michael E. McNamee, a New London tailor, was called to the stand, but his testimony was brief.

State Policeman Jackson.

State Policeman William E. Jackson testified that he had been in the service about 11 years, and has been detailed on about 75 fire investigation cases, testified that Nathan Pumerantz told him the cause of this fire was the boiler. This was made in the Pumerantz store in Green street about nine days after the fire. Pumerantz told him that he closed the store at five minutes before 12 and took the car for home at the parade at midnight. Pumerantz told him that he first heard of the fire by a telephone message from Benjamin Pumerantz at Swan's restaurant. The state policeman also testified to making the count with State Policeman Downing of the goods saved from the fire.

In cross examination of Mr. Jackson, Attorney Geary asked him if he had not "got after" the witness, Max Franken, after Franken had been on the stand in the morning.

The state's attorney objected to the words "got after" and Policeman Jackson said he took Franken to the state's attorney's office to have Franken explain how it was he changed his testimony on the stand from what he had previously given to the state's attorney.

Warm Wordy Clash. There was a warm wordy clash between State's Attorney Hull and Attorney Geary when Mr. Geary intimated that the witness Franken had been threatened and that someone had offered him some money before Franken got into the state's attorney's office.

The state's attorney challenged anyone to produce such proof, saying: "I was right there and I heard the conversation, and I know what went on. Attorney Geary retorted: 'You're not everywhere, Mr. Hull.'"

On redirect examination, it was brought out that the state policeman had a knowledge of clothing stocks and on further cross examination he was examined as to details in the count that was made of the stuff saved and stored after the fire.

Herman Alofin, 28, an attorney of this city, who has been practicing about five years, testified that he was counsel for some of the creditors of Mr. Pumerantz in May, 1913. At that time witness said it was stated that the indebtedness of Pumerantz was about $8,600. A list of creditors made out in the office of Attorney Hankey in 1913, totaling something over this amount.

Alfred H. Murphy of Hartford, in the fire insurance business, was put on to testify to payments made by insurance companies to Mr. Pumerantz, but on objection by Attorney Geary he was not permitted to testify.

Mrs. Mary McCarthy, wife of John McCarthy, who had previously testified that she had seen the fire alarm for the Pumerantz fire fire alarm got up and dressed and left the house.

Court adjourned to the next day at 10 o'clock.

GOING TO CANTON.

At the morning services Jan. 31 he made the announcement that he had received a call to take charge of a church in Canton, Mass., and he was desirous that the matter would be considered earnestly for at least two weeks and that a wise decision would be rendered relative to his going or staying. ## 88 DEATHS THROUGH AUTOMOBILE CASUALTIES.

In Connecticut in the Past Year—18 More Than a Year Ago.

There were 88 automobile fatalities in the state of Connecticut during the 12 months ending Dec. 31, 1914, according to figures given at this morning at the office of the secretary of state. This is an increase of 18 over the year previous, when 70 persons met death because of auto accidents. In 1913, 64 persons were killed in similar accidents.

During the past year former Secretary of State Albert Phillips held 139 hearings at the capitol and 170 operators' licenses were suspended because of accidents, intoxication and other causes.

Despondent because of ill health, Robert Lincoln Lee, 52, shot himself while a patient at Roosevelt hospital, New York, early Sunday morning and may die. ## FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW.

Well-known local druggist says everybody is using old-time recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when faded, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value their even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" which carries the name of our grandmother's recipe.

Not only does it keep the hair from turning gray, but it also keeps the scalp itching and falling hair from coming out, and gives the hair a softness with it and gives this through your hair, taking on small strands at a time by using the Gray Hair Disappearing Lotion.
